

With the busiest blog on the block

Fabtech.org was first launched in 1996. Its re-launch in 2005 and program of investment since has ensured it has become the fastest growing website in the semiconductor industry. Presenting the latest news, reviews and analysis, Fabtech.org has become the indispensable portal for professionals in the semiconductor industry.

Daily - Weekly - Quarterly: Specialist Semiconductor

Daily industry news and our opinion-forming blogs empower industry professionals to make key decisions about new tool orders and to better understand the opportunities and pitfalls of the semiconductor marketplace. Our extensive archive of technical white papers attracts senior professionals from the industry to consistently reference our site. The article search function is consistently the 5th most visited area of the site.

Highly Targeted Audience

Our industry news coverage attracts a mix of senior executives; process, line and tool engineers; production, fab and technical managers; VPs of operations, technology and R&D; and also attracts a high level of interest from the investor and analyst community.

Geographically, 52% of our traffic comes from the U.S., followed by the major manufacturing centers of Taiwan, Japan and Singapore.

Advertising & Sponsorship

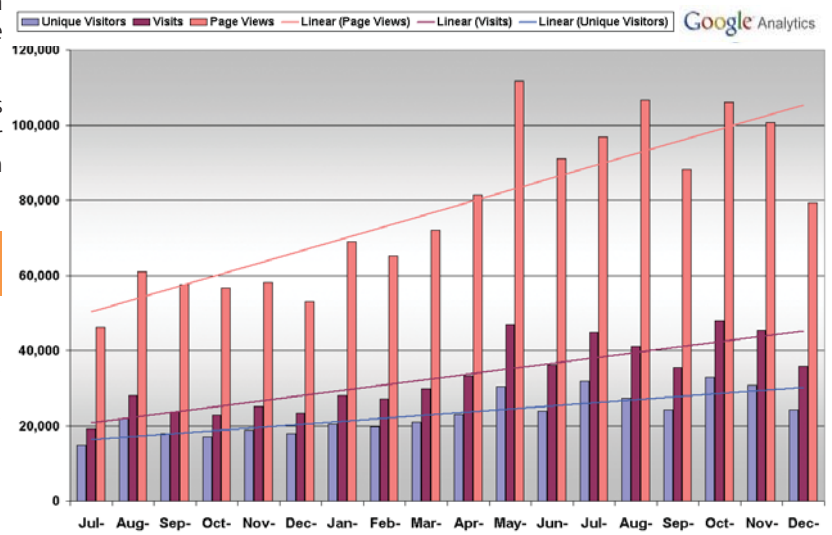

This highly targeted audience can be reached very cost effectively through the Fabtech.org platform, 365 days a year, via a combination of banners, skyscrapers, newsletters and white papers.

The home page attracts the largest number of unique visitors and page views month-on-month. We offer a range of banner opportunities to ensure you gain instant awareness and high click-through rates (CTR).

Return On Investment – Traffic

Visitor levels for 2007 came to 452,466 in total for the year, while our pageview level passed the million mark, coming in at 1,067,953. Receive monthly traffic reports using statistics from the independent Google Analytics. Access daily statistics for your campaign using our tracking system. We encourage you to update your banner as often as we update our news – daily.
